COURT PENCILINGS.

Judgment Reserved at the last Court.

Munn v. Bell. This action was tried at the last sittings of the Court, and judgment was reserved. The facts of the case are as follows:—defendant convicted plaintiff's note and as collateral security for the endorsement plaintiff handed him two due bills for 200 bushels of barley each, made by Deacon and Snell. The note fell due and was produced, the defendant thinking the due bills belonged to him made an arrangement with Deacon and Snell whereby the latter gave their notes to the defendant in exchange for the due bills. Plaintiff after this arrangement was made paid his note and demanded the due bills.
Defendant then left the notes which he had taken from Deacon and Snell with Macdonell & Knowles, bankers, but plaintiff refused to accept them. This action was one of breach to recover the value of these due bills and damages to the amount of $800 were claimed. The case has now been decided in defendant's favor, the plaintiff being non-suited.
McLean for plaintiff, Elliot for defendant.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE S. S. V. RAILWAY.

Editor of the Times:—

Sir:—Will you or some of your readers kindly inform me what has become of that influx of laborers which were coming in about this time to grade the track of the South Saskatchewan valley railway. The distance between the two rivers is very short and our own people are naturally anxious to make the most of the short time that we will have this small army of men amongst us. The line has already come when we were led to believe they would be here but as yet there are no signs of either "the mighty host" or "their foremen." At the same time it may not be impossible to ask what has become of our telegraph extension, has it fallen through or is it a living reality. Hoping you will excuse me for occupying so much of your valuable space.

Respectfully,
John and Martin Henry, brothers, endorsed a meeting gallery at Chicago on Saturday afternoon. Martin stepped from behind the screen as John fired at the target and instantly a bullet in the heart dying instantly.

THE ELECTION

For the North West Council.

As predicted in our last issue, Mr.
Macdonald has been returned and is now our member. We are pleased at being able to congratulate Mr. Macdonald and his friends on their success. We were struck that Mr. Macdonald's supporters were ever confident, and we consequently thought ourselves justified in speaking as we did in our issue of the 30th May. We consider we have a member who every one can be proud of. It was somewhat hard to fight the battle yesterday. The fact that Mr. Macdonald was not in the district influenced a few to vote against him, but the committees worked all the harder on that account. Mr. Macdonald's majority is 139. The Ridge was the only place, as will be seen from the figures below, where Dr. Porter had a majority.

A number of Mr. Macdonald's friends met at the residence of the Hon. Mr. Clarke on the evening of the 30th. The result of the counting was, when mutual congratulations were extended. The retiring member, the Hon. Laurence Clarke, has no reason to feel ashamed of his success, as the one who now wears his mantle will make an excellent representative. Nobody but will be missed at the Council Board—all such men are Mr. Clarke worked hard for Mr. Macdonald, and had others worked as he did the majority would have been much greater. Still the most of the committee did the best they could. We have to desire to say anything discreditable about Dr. Porter. The election is over, and we have been successful. Dr. Porter in private life is a good fellow and a kind friend. We had to take a stand, and took the side which we felt some to succeed. We give the figures as we have received them from the secretary of Mr.
Macdonald's committee. At the time of going to press the official return from Dr. Clarke and St. Laurent had not arrived. We also congratulate Mr. Mc-Lean for the manner in which he steered the campaign. Mr. McLean could not have known many of the electors in the district, as he only arrived here last October in the same boat as we did, but for a certain extent to his energies and management in the result of this election, though he took no part on the platform at the public meetings. We feel sorry that some of Dr. Porter's friends take their defeat as badly as they do. Some one had to win, and they should have known as well as we did. Dr. Porter himself, we believe in the only one who looks upon the result as his defeat. He takes his defeat like a man, and we admire him the more for it. We are pleased the election is over, the most disagreeable one we have ever taken part in—on account of the questions which came up.
There were no political questions raised there was none to raise, in fact the whole question was which was the best man who could do the most good for the District of Regina, and our readers have decided. Possibly we may have another kind of an election on one of these days. The district may be asked to send a member to Ottawa. Let the electors keep this before them.

THE PRINCE ALBERT TIMES

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1883

THE NEW FRANCHISE ACT.

Although the North West Territories are not very likely to receive the benefit of representation in the Dominion Parliament for some time to come, the many peculiar features of the new Dominion Franchise Act which Sir John has brought down may not prove uninteresting to our readers. The Bill appears to be based largely upon the present Ontario Act. The property qualification now required by the new Act is as follows:—In cities, towns and incorporated villages $300 real property, or $20 rental; in rural districts $200 real or $20 rental. All persons who derive an income of $400 will also be entitled to vote. In counties, farmers' sons who have been residents continuously on the farms of their father or of their mother after the death of their father, shall be enfranchised if the farm be of sufficient value equally divided among them as co-owners to qualify them under the Act. In cities, towns and villages the sons of business men, mechanics and others will be admitted to the franchise on the same terms as farmers' sons. Unmarried women possessed of the necessary property qualification will also be entitled to vote, this clause to apply to the daughters of farmers and to those of property holders in cities, towns and villages. The Act provides for the appointment of a revising officer, whose duty it will be to prepare the voters lists and hold courts for their revision.

The foregoing is a brief outline of the proposed Act as explained by the Premier. Apart altogether from the controversy between the two parties as to whether the franchise should be left to the Provincial Governments or not, the bill has many peculiarities. Why should unmarried ladies possess so much advantage over their married sisters? It seems an injustice to debar the mother of a family from a privilege enjoyed by her daughters. If we are to have female suffrage we should prefer it in its entirety, irrespective of marriage conditions. The appointment of revising officers by the Government is receiving a good deal of opposition from the members of the Reform party, who claim that the Government of the day will appoint partisan officers, and that the various township assessors would do the work for a very much smaller amount of remuneration than county judges or barristers will expect to get. The Bill will also be open to the objection that it will be much more expensive than the old method, as it will be necessary to prepare the voters' lists heretofore used for municipal and provincial elections. The expense of the present lists will be entirely additional. The expense to the municipalities will be about trebled, notwithstanding the fact that the revisions will be paid out of the Dominion treasury.

REARING OF CATTLE.

In no part of the North West is there as great a scarcity of cattle as in this vicinity. Cows cannot be had at any price and young cattle only at exorbitant figures. While a large number are being brought into Manitoba and Assiniboia, it is regretted that none of them find their way to this locality. So long as the present high prices of milk and butter continue, and they must continue for several years to come, farmers would be willing to invest in stock if it could be had by the dairy farmers in Ontario.

can make money with cheese at twelve cents per pound, and butter about fifteen, surely there is room for an abundant profit with cheese at thirty and butter at fifty cents per pound, in connection with this it is to be remembered that in no part of Canada is there a district better suited for the rearing of stock, even the celebrated Bow River country does not furnish such an abundant pasturage as that found here, and although the chinook winds may enable the cattle to pasture out during the greater part of the winter many of them perish during the sudden changes of temperature to which that locality is subject. An abundance of hay can be cut for winter use, and with proper housing and care the cattle will be in better condition for spring, the calves and other young cattle less stunted in their growth than if pastured out. And as the herds have not to be driven long distances to market as in the ranching districts, the farmer need not keep a large number but may begin upon a limited scale. From reliable information gathered in the locality we learn that an average cow will yield butter to the value of over $100 in a single season, thus repaying the original cost of the cow and leaving a handsome surplus the first season.

Cannot something be done to bring this matter before those who are engaged in shipping cattle to this country. Possibly our suggestion of last week in reference to an agricultural society might pave the way. We are satisfied that if stock of any kind were brought in they would find a ready sale at remunerative prices.

NEW DOMINION LANDS ACT.

Another session of the Dominion Parliament has passed away and again the North West Territories have been almost entirely neglected. Sir Charles Tupper says we must suffer if necessary in the interests of Canada as a whole, and we are beginning to realize the meaning of his words. The only bill passed which has any special relation to the North West is the Dominion Lands Act, which is principally intended to consolidate the acts now in force and which provides for a second homestead entry to those who have obtained their patents for their first. This clause is as it should be, as it supplies the settler with means to enter upon a second claim for which he is much better fitted, than are the newly arrived immigrants, some of whom having means would much rather purchase an improved farm than undertake the difficulties and privations incident to pioneer life. Pre-emption acts to be discontinued after January 1st, 1885, the date having been deferred until that time in order that intending emigrants from the United Kingdom and other distant countries may become fully aware of the change, so that they may not be disappointed in not receiving the additional 160 acres to which they would at present be entitled. This clause is also a desirable one if it can be made practicable, but a large number of immigrants may prefer to locate south of the 49th parallel of latitude where they can still secure their allotment of 320 acres and where they can obtain improved machinery at much less cost than it can be purchased for on this side of the line, we have to pay 35 per cent to either the Ontario manufacturer or to the Dominion treasury. No immigrant can be convinced that he will do better in Canada with only 160 acres of land than in Dakota where he can secure 320 and where he can buy a self-binder for about one hundred dollars less than he can dig in the Canadian Territories, and when he comes to find that all his other implements, together with his provisions are to be increased in about the same proportion, he will indeed be a very loyal British subject if he does not forsake the old flag. There is nothing in the Act binding the Government to open the lands so withdrawn from pre-emption for homestead entry, although Sir John A. Macdonald has promised that such should be the case, but we already know from dear bought experience, that one of the most unsatisfactory parts of our land policy is the power reserved by the Governor-General to issue Orders in Council. Lands have already been withdrawn from homestead entry in Southern Manitoba to be sold by auction and we have every reason to fear that these may be treated in the same manner. The settler will now be obliged to borrow a sum not exceeding $500 and not paying interest in excess of six per cent. The fixing of a rate of interest by the Government has never been found of any practical use and consequently the low rate fixed by the Act will not hinder it from enabling the homesteader to borrow. The Government have also wisely refused the petition of the squatters on school lands. The large majority of those who squatted on such lands knew the risks they ran and in some cases were requested by neighboring farmers not to enter upon the school sections. It was therefore much better to reserve these lands for the purpose for which they were first set aside, although we are at a loss to understand why those within the boundaries of Manitoba were not handed over at once to that province to be dealt with as the people there might see fit. Nothing has been done in the way of protecting the adventurous colonist who may push his way beyond the surveyed tracts. If the land on which he may squat should be found when surveyed to be an old settler he will be compelled to pay for or abandon it. Nor has any provision been made for those who settle upon land prior to the opening of a land office in their locality by which they can be allowed to date entry from the date of settlement.

EMIGRATION.

From the "Observer," Bradford, Eng.
 Sir, The following letter has been received by me in answer to some inquiries I made with reference to the special inducements held out to intending emigrants to the province of Saskatchewan, more particularly the township of Prince Albert, and also as to the requirements of settlers, &c. It will I am sure, be valued by persons who are emigrating to Canada, especially by those who are going to the great north-west territories, which are by many people (well able to judge) considered far superior in climate to Manitoba. I may just explain that the "north-west territories" beyond the confines of Manitoba are now divided into four new districts or provinces, viz., Assiniboia and Alberta, which are both bounded on the south by the international boundary line, and Saskatchewan and Athabasca, which are to the north of these. Alberta and Athabasca are bounded on the west by British Columbia.—I am, &c.,

PRO PATRA.

Bradford, Feb. 20, 1883.

"Dear Sir, I am in receipt of your letter of Nov. 22, and now reply briefly, but to point. It is presumable that you have some capital. It need not be large, but say about £200, which sum would give you a good start. This country is the finest part of the Saskatchewan, and this section now numbers 7,000 souls, the town itself, rapidly growing, having a population of 1,500; and all the essential industries are already established. Its climate is much finer than that of Manitoba, being free from windstorms. It is a mixed prairie and wooded country and timber is abundant. Though 2,400 miles west of Toronto, the capital of Ontario, it is still, by way of Hudson's Bay, nearer Liverpool than that city, and the development of that route is but the question of a few years. The winter climate, though occasionally for a few days severe, is generally very dry and pleasant, and is relished by Old Country people, of whom you will find large numbers here, and all of whom are prospering. The seedling season is variable. I have seen ploughing done in March, but this is not usual. It begins in April, and full ploughing enables the farmer to get all his grain in in plenty of time. The days are very long in summer, and the weather after June very warm. Grain matures rapidly and is of remarkably superior and nutritious quality, our wheat being rich in gluten and albuminoids. The soil is very rich, and no manure is necessary. The prairie grass, which is cut in July, furnishes hay in abundance of the best quality. The district is abundantly watered by ponds or lakes and streams. Many Englishmen (from mistaken notions as to the requirements of this country) hammer themselves with all kinds of useless articles which had better be left at home. The country is perfectly peaceable and orderly, and you do not require to furnish yourself with a small armory of rifles, guns, revolvers, knives, and what not. These will cost you money, and be of no service to you here, whilst the money will be of great service. Bring all the ready money you can, and come empty-handed otherwise, rather than be encumbered with useless lumber, which will run away with your money in freight. Better come thus and observe the methods of the country, and purchase on the spot what you really need, for you can get everything you require here in abundance. A few bladders and cartridges will be useful, for feathered game is very abundant. This is all you want in the way of arms. Nothing you must bring, also a tent, and provisions for a year, though you can get supplied here with flour, &c. Salt and fresh provisions also are abundant, but for your trip out you require those things. A team also of light horses, but if aged they must be sent, a wagon, a Toronto reaper and mower, breaking and cross plough, and iron harrows—all these things you can get on your arrival at Winnipeg, and bring them with you. Everything else you can get here that you really require. I think I have given you all the points in a plain and practical shape. The country is very fine; so far as that is concerned there can be no doubt or complaint. But the man must be all right. If you know what economy means if you are uncomplaining over trifles, and can stand roughing it for a year or two, and are industrious you must succeed, for here nature has made the farms, and the farmer, who in the eastern provinces has to begin life with the axe, begins it here with the plough. Bear in mind too, that here you are under your own flag, and in the midst of a people more attached to the Empire, perhaps, than you are in England. I should recommend you to leave England so that you may be here early in May. You can then go on looking up your land. Don't come here in April as the weather in Manitoba in March is stormy.—I am, &c., C. Mair.

She Wanted Some Motives.

A gentleman whose wife had intimated him to purchase a few nice, appropriate motives because intolerant, and forgot just what was wanted of him. He had a confused notion that his wife's request was in some way relative to his purchase of something in the way of sign cards, so he called upon a dealer and purchased quite a variety.

"I've got 'em (did my dear. He he he!) a whole lot of nice 'uns," he said, as he triumphantly produced his package.

With a sigh over his mindless condition, she opened the parcel and found the following:—"Hands Off,"—"Your Choice for Five Cents,"—"Look Out for the Locomotive,"—"Keep Off the Grass,"—"No Dogs Admitted,"—"Ham Sandwiches Ten Cents Each,"—"Tom and Jerry,"—"For Rent,"—"Oysters in All Styles."

Then the lady went down town and made her own selections, and when her husband woke up one morning after a spree that cost him $400, a placard stared him in the face from his bed-room wall.—"Run Did it," and when he turned over with a groan he noticed the warning,—"Shun the Bowl." Shifting uneasily to the other side he caught sight of "Death in the Cup." He hasn't been drunk since.
